NOTES FROM THE POTOMAC

John Stiera

Capitol Hill—Early work on the Federal budget is underway by the House and Senate Budget committees. Many of the agriculture and conservation interests have been engaged in informing lawmakers that the 2014 Farm Bill already has consolidated over 100 programs and made cuts to mandatory spending across many titles—saving an estimated $23 billion over 10 years, including $6 billion in conservation funding. These groups are asking the Budget Committees to refrain from additional cuts to programs within the jurisdiction of the Senate and House Agriculture Committees. The Farm Bill required over three years of debate before enactment, and any attempt to re-open the Farm Bill is being strongly opposed by most agricultural, conservation, and nutrition interests.

Secretary Tom Vilsack testified before the House and Senate agriculture committees recently. He discussed USDA implementation of the 2014 Farm Bill, including the various conservation programs. You can read his prepared testimony by scrolling down to his name at http://www.ag.senate.gov/hearings/the-agricultural-act-of-2014-implementation-after-one-year-and-farm-credit-administration-pending-nominations. In the Q&A, Secretary Vilsack made reference to the imbalance between conservation program funding and the workforce needed to deliver the needed conservation assistance.

RCPP Projects—NRCS announced selection of the first projects of the new USDA Regional Conservation Partnership Program. These 115 high-impact projects across all 50 states and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico will receive more than $370 million in Federal funding, and projects are leveraging an estimated $400 million in partner contributions to improve the nation’s water quality, support wildlife habitat and enhance the environment. The RCPP program is a new initiative created in the 2014 Farm Bill that promotes coordination between NRCS and partners to deliver conservation assistance to producers and landowners. For more information about the program and the projects selected, go to the RCPP home page at http://www.nrcs.usda.gov/wps/portal/nrcs/main/national/programs/farmbill/rcpp/. Another application period for RCPP project proposals is anticipated in the spring. Over $200 million in Federal funds will be available for this second round of RCPP proposals.

Conservation Easements—The interim final rule for the Agricultural Conservation Easement Program (ACEP) is at the Federal Register for official publication. ACEP is the consolidation of the Farm and Ranch Lands Protection Program, the Grassland Reserve Program, and the Wetland Reserve Program. Upon publication, NRCS will be able to proceed with both agricultural land easements (working through eligible entities) and wetland reserve easements. The rule is likely to be published on February 27th, 2015. Public comments are invited on the rule during the 60 days following publication. The official rule can be found at: http://www.gpo.gov/fdsys/browse/collection.action?collectionCode=FR. Please click on the year, then the month, and then the date.

WOTUS—EPA and the Army Corps of Engineers have officially withdrawn the interpretive rule regarding conservation practices as part of the Waters of the United States proposed rule. As stated in the last newsletter, the withdrawal of the interpretive rule was mandated in the CRomnibus appropriation act passed by Congress in December 2014.

Drones—The Federal Aviation Administration released the proposed rule for use of small drones (unmanned aviation systems) for commercial uses. (Recreation and hobby uses are covered under different rules.) Agriculture, including conservation, has been viewed as a major application for commercial use of small drones. Among the significant items in the proposed rule are the following requirements:
• Limited to a maximum altitude of 500 feet above ground level
• The drone must remain within visual contact of the operator at all times
• Drone must weigh less than 55 pounds
• Drone may not operate over any person not directly involved in the operation
• The operator must obtain an unmanned aircraft operator certificate
• The operator must be at least 17 years old

For those interested in commenting on this proposed rule by the April 24, 2015 deadline, the full rule can be found at http://www.gpo.gov/fdsys/pkg/FR-2015-02-23/pdf/2015-03544.pdf.

Agricultural Outlook—The 2015 Agricultural Outlook Conference was held February 19-20. It covered a number of interesting topics, including “big data” in agriculture, conservation, climate change, protecting our food supply, and other topics. For those who are interested, many of the presentations are available online. Go to http://www.usda.gov/oce/forum/. Click on the Thursday or Friday label on the left hand panel to show the detailed program and click on the presentation for more information.

Farm Data Privacy—Several private companies have collaborated to develop a paper labeled “Privacy and Security Principles for Farm Data.” These principles address the growing concerns about access and use of farm-level data that are increasingly critical to improving productivity and efficiency on farms. The paper can be found at http://www.fb.org/tmp/uploads/PrivacyAndSecurityPrinciplesForFarmData.pdf.

Gray Wolf—The Fish and Wildlife Service has officially reinstated Endangered Species Act protections for the gray wolf in certain states in the western Great Lakes and Wyoming. This is the result of a court order from last year. Several other states (e.g., Montana, Idaho) are not affected by this reinstatement of ESA protections.

Soil Health—Here is another short video in the soil health series put out by NRCS. While not new information, it demonstrates how NRCS is using modern communication technology to increase awareness about farming and conservation systems. The website is: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JDLkAUYRAnI&list=PL4J8Pxoprpg3wFYSXFu-BW_mMatleIt0&index=18.

People—John Larson has joined American Farmland Trust as Executive Director for Programs. John had been with the National Association of Conservation Districts as their Chief Executive Officer for the last several years.

Former NRCS Chief Dave White has joined with former Senate Ag. Committee conservation staffer Tina May and former House Ag. Committee staffer Pelham Straughn to create a new firm called the 9b Group. The name is a reflection on the nine billion world population projected by mid-century and the need to ensure that the resource base is protected as we ramp up production to feed that many people. Dave, Tina, and Pelham are doing consulting work on agriculture and conservation for a number of organizations in Washington.

In the Senate, Pat Roberts from Kansas will assume the Chairmanship of the Senate Agriculture Committee. Current Chair, Michigan Senator Debbie Stabenow, will become the ranking member for the Democratic side.

FROM THE PRESIDENT
Warren M. Lee, wandblee@comcast.net

We are back in Virginia for a couple of weeks to greet our new grandson, Carter James Bray, or CJ as his big brother calls him. Although it’s been fun getting acquainted with him, I’m looking forward to returning to warm weather in Arizona.

In our last newsletter I asked for your input on whether to include our telephone numbers in the membership Directory. Everyone who responded supported including the telephone numbers as long as we gave each member the opportunity to opt out and not have their number listed.

On our February 19, 2015 teleconference, our ARCSE Board of Directors unanimously approved a decision to include telephone numbers in our next directory which comes out in May 2015, with the provision to allow members to not have their numbers listed.

Action on your part: Notify Ron Marlow, ARCSE Secretary-Treasurer, at ARCSE@cox.net if you do NOT want to have your telephone number listed. The deadline for providing Ron with this information is April 15, 2015.

We also need your help on another issue. The ARCSE membership continues to decline, and our membership is getting older. We need your help to recruit new retirees as members and retain those we have. The newsletter and Directory of our membership provides us with valuable tools in keeping in contact with former colleagues and people we’ve met throughout the years. A membership application is attached to the email transmitting the electronic version of the newsletter for your use in recruiting members. The application is also available for download at http://arcse.org/qFormMember.htm.
ARCSE President’s Award for Outstanding Community Service

It is time once again to start thinking about potential nominees for the award. Nominations for the award and documentation (no more than two pages) of the qualifications of the nominee are to be made by the ARCSE Representative. Nominees’ names and qualifications will be sent to the Regional Vice President by May 15th.

Purpose: To publicly recognize ARCSE Members who have distinguished themselves in sustained and outstanding contributions in local, state, and regional community service.

Qualifications:
- Nominee is an ARCSE Member.
- Nominee demonstrates strong character and high ethical and professional standards.
- Selection will not be based upon his/her achievements while employed by SCS/NRCS.

Criteria for Nomination: Nominees will be those individuals who have distinguished themselves by providing sustained high quality service, possibly using their SCS/NRCS area of expertise, to local, state, or regional entities. Recipients of their service may include volunteer work for hospitals, churches, schools, youth organizations such as Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, SWCDs, NRCS Earth Teams, environmental groups, or other units of government, or service organizations.

A BIT OF HISTORY

Historical Agriculture and Soil Erosion in the Upper Mississippi Valley Hill Country

CRP Press has published Stanley W. Trimble’s Historical Agriculture and Soil Erosion in the Upper Mississippi Valley Hill Country. The studies and data collected by the Stream and Valley Section of the Sedimentation Division of the Soil Conservation Service were central to Trimble’s research.

Trimble first learned of the work of Stream and Valley Section when he studied soil erosion in the Southern Piedmont as a graduate student and then began his studies of the Upper Mississippi Valley while teaching at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. He later moved to the University of California-Los Angeles.

When Hugh Hammond Bennett studied soil erosion prior to the creation of the Soil Erosion Service (SES), he identified this area as one of the primary soil erosion problem areas needing detailed study and changes in farming practices. Coon Creek in southwestern Wisconsin became the first demonstration set up by SES in 1933.

Trimble’s book, on which he worked 39 years, is much more than a follow-up of the sedimentation studies, as it discusses geological and natural history, European settlement and land use, development of agriculture and the coming of soil conservation to the area.

Shaffer, Mary            KS

Members, please be sure that your dues are current by April 15, 2015 to ensure that you are listed in the annual Directory. Those who have not yet paid their dues for 2015 will be receiving a Post Card Reminder in the mail in early March. Be on the lookout for it.

ARCSE Representatives Report

by Ron Marlow, Secretary Treasurer

Complimentary membership: When you have retiree social functions or any other time that you see new retirees from NRCS, be sure to remind them that they are eligible for a one-year free membership if they retired on or after January 1, 2003. All that is required is that they submit a membership application. Previous members of ARCSE are not eligible for the complimentary membership. The application is available for download at http://arcse.org/qFormMember.htm.

Many of you are planning your annual state retiree social functions. These functions are a good opportunity to make our ARCSE membership brochure available to retirees. If you need additional brochures, please send a request to Ron Marlow at arcse@cox.net. For a digital copy use this link: http://www.arcse.org/qFormBrochure.pdf

State Representatives are encouraged to keep a close working relationship with someone in the NRCS State Office. Many of you do this by having the State Conservationist or other State Office representatives attend local ARCSE social events. If you have not had an opportunity to ensure that close working relationship recently, now is a good time to schedule a visit. This will also provide an opportunity to pass along a supply of the ARCSE brochures for placement in each retiree’s packet. To further improve communications, some Representatives have their email address added to the State Office’s emailing list for newsy items. This gives you another venue for finding out about new retirees and deaths of retirees.

ARIZONA

Bob Addison, Portal—It was a cool and cloudy Jan. here, but the last couple days in Jan. produced around two inches of rain which is always welcome, barring the disastrous flood which occurred in and around Portal in early Sept. 2014. No fatalities but lots of road damages for which we’re still recovering and a lot of flooding of houses etc. I moved my wife, Jeanne, from a nursing home in Lordsburg, NM to one in Douglas, AZ, in November. Visits to her are a bit easier for me as I do my grocery shopping, etc., in Douglas, which is around 55 mi. from home. Will try to keep in touch as it is such a pleasure to keep in touch with the old ‘SCS’ers.

Steve Black, Phoenix—Retirees who had a connection to Missouri or Michigan met for lunch in Scottsdale, AZ on Feb 5th. Hugh and Sharon were in Arizona for the winter and live in Columbia, Missouri. The remainder of those in attendance are residents in the Phoenix area. Several other retirees who had worked in those states were invited but were not able to attend. The group plans to meet again in Phoenix next year. Ken McManus, however, is planning to move to Florida this spring.

Ken Cookson, Tucson—In the middle of December, Ken and Connie Cookson traveled to Arthur, IL (near Champaign) to be at their annual “family together” for an early Christmas. Son and daughter-in-law from Rantoul, IL and daughter and son-in-law from Gaithersburg, MD made the trip. We always meet at Ken’s brother and sister-in-law’s. The weather was quite different this year, no nine inches of snow, just overcast, foggy, rainy, windy and cold. That, however, did not deter us from enjoying our time together.
Shortly after New Year’s, Ken and Connie spent five days in Santa Fe, NM enjoying museums and galleries. The Museum of Indian Arts and Culture and the Museum of International Folk Art were particularly good. They enjoyed wine tasting at the Estrella Del Norte Winery and had an enjoyable lunch at the Compound Restaurant.

Bill Fobair, Cottonwood—See below, a photo of the first car I ever owned, purchased when I was 14 years old. It belonged to a farmer who lived three miles from Butte NE. It was formerly a touring car which he converted into a pickup. It had 30x3" tires in front and 30x3.5" in rear. He sold it to me for $5, and for good measure he added in an extra set of tires.

In February of 1938, my goal was to raise tomatoes on Badger Island, three miles downstream from my old homestead, which is why I bought the car. Within a week I had three volunteers to assist me in this endeavor. The understanding was that we would clear two acres, plant three hundred tomato plants and assist in the harvest. When the work was done we could go fishing or swimming. The pickup would carry six bushels. I sold my first harvest in July and the last two bushels in September—all for seventy-five cents per bushel. Imagine that was just over a penny a pound. Nonetheless, I made $300 that summer.

Gordon Odell, Tucson—Gordon and Carol Odell took an RV trip with three other motorhomes in mid-February to see the Western Pyrotechnic Association Winter Blast in Lake Havasu City, AZ. We saw fantastic fireworks displays for four nights by the manufacturers of the finest available to communities for their 4th of July shows. This summer will again be spent at Vallecito Reservoir near Durango, CO.
Karl Klingelhofer, Tucson—A Ford Tri-Motor came through Tucson on Feb. 13, and I paid for a ride in this bird. It lasted for about 40 minutes over Tucson. It was built in 1929 by Henry Ford and was reported to be the 1st commercial airliner in this country. 199 were built and cost $55,000 at the factory. They took eight people at a time on this flight for $70 each, which I thought was reasonable.

The following Friday, the B-29 “Fi Fi” stopped in Tucson for three days. 4,000 were built in the early 40s, and this is the only one left that flies. Not this one, but B-29s dropped the atom bombs on Japan. I was able to take a tour inside for $10, and that was very interesting. The following day they gave rides. The cost was $545 for the cheapest seat. I passed on this but did see it in the air on Saturday while playing tennis—a beautiful airplane.
Karl Klingelhofer with B-29.

Cockpit of restored B-29.

Galen Bridge, Tucson—Not much new happening in the Bridge camp. As usual, I spend the bulk of my time traveling or making things out of wood. Somebody is going to inherit a pretty nice shop full of tools. My most recent challenge is building a mission rocking chair. I think an ultra-light plane might be easier.

I did stop in Phoenix recently and spent a brief visit with Warren and Barbara Lee, Larry and Karen Lenz, and Gordy and Betsy Klofstad. Larry and Karen along with my friend Erwina spent two weeks hanging out on the beaches of Maui. Travel by US air carriers has become anything but fun. It will really test your patience. My advice is do not try to leave Phoenix on the day of the Super Bowl, a PGA tournament and major snow problems in the East. It just won't happen.

I did have a better experience getting to the Virgin Islands over Christmas. Saint John and St. Thomas are great destinations.

Hello to all our fellow SCS and NRCS retirees across the nation. We continue to enjoy our Monthly gatherings, one for lunch and one for breakfast. Those who made the February 4th lunch are shown in the photo.

With the exception of California Folks I have seen recently, the rest of you have never seen me like this without facial hair of some kind, either a full beard, goatee or mustache. It has been 40 years or so since I was last clean-shaven. Even my wife Dana of 37 years had never seen me this way, as I had my mustache when we first met!

Hello to all our fellow SCS and NRCS retirees across the nation. We continue to enjoy our Monthly gatherings, one for lunch and one for breakfast. Those who made the February 4th lunch are shown in the photo.

We learned at the luncheon that Ted Gerbaz had a scheduled surgery on February 13th, described by his wife Ila as “going in and freezing a cancer concern on Ted’s Kidney.” She asked us to keep Ted in our prayers which of course we were all very happy to do. I talked to Ted on the phone the following morning after his surgery and I was very happy and relieved to hear that he was already home and recovering nicely. He told me they took him in bright and early and everything went according to plan. They froze the "cancer concern" on his kidney, and he was home about 3:00pm. He told me he was sitting comfortably in his chair with a blanket and reading the paper. The main issue for him right now is he feels very tired. It was great to hear his cheerful voice, and he thanked everybody for their prayers! I also know that Ted celebrated his 89th birthday right about the same time as his operation. Happy Birthday indeed Ted!

The new Bill Ward, Clean shaven after 40 years!

I had fun putting this little video story together of how this change came to be now and a look back through the years of all phases of my facial hair. Hope you enjoy! https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=zUQ9_RBhK3I. That's all for this update, wishing you all the best from all the California retirees!

From George Norris:

The following people enjoyed the SCS/NRCS luncheon at Ryans in Athens on Thursday, January 22, 2015: June Andrews, Fred Dilbeck, Linda Dipietro, Edna Firor, Talbert Gerald, Loraine and Jack Hahn, Jim Helm, Marge Lucas, Rick Main, Cecil and Jean Martin, George and Ellen Norris, Vivian Patten, Don and Evelyn Stewart, Bob Stovall, Beverly Walker, Bill White, Bob and Frances Wilkes, and Steve Lawrence.

Following the meal, several members shared historical events that they had experienced during their careers. The discussion was triggered by Doug Helm’s historic retiree.

Steve Lawrence was welcomed to the group as the most recent retiree. Steve retired this month as State Soil Scientist in Georgia.

Our Jan. 22nd luncheon was a fun event, attended by a brand new retiree and a new 90-year old! Attendees included Dennis and Mary Froeming, Hal Swenson (newly retired state soil scientist), Jim Cornwell, Ralph Swift, Ruth and Amos (who had recently celebrated his birthday) Garrison, Stan Hobson, Darrell Gallup and his two sons, Paul and Harriet Calverley, Frank Fink, John Kendrick, Dan Ogle, and Sharon Norris.

We are saddened to report the passing of our good friend and coworker George James, who died Nov. 18, 2014, in his home near Boise. George was born in Greeley, CO on July 29, 1928. He graduated from Colorado State Univ. with a Bachelor of Science in Agronomy. He worked for SCS 30 years, spent two years with the State Dept. in Tunisia and two years in Botswana. He retired in Boise and enjoyed playing golf and traveling the world with his wife Alyce, who preceded him in death. George donated blood for over 50 years and was recognized by the State of Idaho with "George James Day" on Nov. 18, 2010, with over 56 gallons donated. He is survived by sons Tom and Donald, his sister, four grandchildren, and two great grandchildren.

We are saddened by the passing of two retired SCS employees in Illinois. Howard Bush passed away September 15, 2014 and then his wife, Sara, in October. Howard retired as State Conservationist in Illinois in 1975. We extend our sympathy to their family.

Larry Esworthy, retired District Conservationist in Olney, passed away on February 1, 2015. We extend our sympathy to Sandy and their family.

The obituaries of both can be seen in the memorium section of this newsletter. Thank you Ron Marlow, our ARCSE Secretary, for doing a super job getting and posting the passing of former SCS/NRCS employees.

Hope you can join us for our spring gathering of Illinois retirees on April 2, 2015 at Ryans Family Steakhouse in Champaign.

IOWA
Mark Jensen, ARCSE Representative [NEW]

For the 30th time in as many years, the “Black Hole Ramblers” have made their annual trip to Summit County in central Colorado. For the benefit of those who are not familiar with the Ramblers, they are now mostly retired NRCS employees who actually like the altitude and snow. The Group this year consisted of Bob Dayton, Duane Miller, Rick Knutson all retired NRCS/SCS; Dale and Joanne Bruce, current NRCS/Tech support; Craig Muhlberg (Former NRCS) and his wife Kim; Jody Christiansen, current NRCS; and Rick, a friend of Rick Knutson. They ski a bit less than they did thirty years ago, but many of the group have taken up snowshoeing which is almost as much fun! Everyone had a great time and they are looking forward to next year.

Every Wednesday morning, a group of retirees in the Des Moines area meet at IHOP for breakfast. Breakfast on February 11th was served to Rod Martin, Mark Jensen, Deane Glen, Duane Miller, Volney Smith, Dale Faulkner, and Don Peterson. This isn’t a closed group. All retirees are welcome. If you are anywhere near the IHOP by Merle Hay Mall on Wednesday mornings a little after 8:00am, please join us. There’s always a lot of good discussion. In fact, many of the world’s problems would be solved if anyone outside of IHOP would listen!

Denny Peterson, one of the regulars from the breakfast group, is recovering from eye surgery. On January 29th, he had a cornea transplant in one eye. His recovery is coming along the way it is supposed to, and he told me that he can see colors that he hasn’t seen in years. If everything keeps going well, he will have another cornea transplant for the other eye later this year. I was particularly struck by a comment Denny made shortly after his surgery. He was writing a thank you letter to the family of the donor. His comment was “How do you thank a family for something that you know they have lost a loved one to provide it?” Denny is thankful for the family and the organ donor program. I’d encourage all of us to check the box on our driver’s license to become an organ donor.
Lee and Alice White just returned from a western trip where they met and traveled with their son Andrew. As an employee of the National Park Service, Andrew enjoys seeing new and unfamiliar parks. They spent several days in Death Valley National Park in California. With its somewhat foreboding name, Death Valley NP is, nonetheless, a beautiful place to visit. The 85 degree temperatures were inviting and a welcome change from Iowa’s winter, but probably not a good place to visit in summer. The valley itself is the lowest point in the US at 282 feet below sea level, while the surrounding mountains are colorful and majestic. They enjoyed numerous hikes into canyons, volcanic craters, ghost towns and toured “Scotty’s Castle,” a vacation home constructed in the 1920’s. The trip also included stops at Grand Canyon National Park and visits to Sedona, Phoenix and Tucson, AZ. While in Tucson they visited the Saguaro National Park known for its giant cactus.

Here’s a little news that is somewhat belated, but still needs to be told. Bob and Nancy Mettetal celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary last August. Their girls, Susan, Jody, and Bobby hosted a celebration for them in their current home town of Leeds, Alabama. Congratulations Nancy and Bob!

Recently we have been saddened by the loss of several of our retiree family. Donna Redman, wife of Don Redman who was a technician in southern Iowa, passed away on December 24, 2014. Darlene Koster, wife of Roger Koster who was a District Conservationist in northern Iowa, passed away on November 27, 2014. Beverly Braymen, wife of Tom Braymen who was a technician in the Creston engineering and field offices, passed away on December 16, 2014. Wayne Ducommun, an engineer in the Sioux City area office, passed away on January 22, 2015. Robert (Bob) Loudon, a district conservationist, RC&D coordinator, and grassland specialist in southern Iowa, passed away on February 1, 2015.
KANSAS

Deanne Lull, ARCSE Representative

My goodness, central Kansas has had a most unusual winter. Several wraps hung by the door, as one day was shirt-sleeve weather or called for a light jacket and the next day one grabbed the parka, as temperatures were in the teens with a north wind. There have been several light snows that contained minimal moisture, so now all eyes are on the wheat fields.

As usual, the end of the year brought about a number of retirements. On December 13, 2014, Gene C. Detrixhe retired as a Soil Conservation Technician in the Russell Field Office. Gary C. Bruner retired on January 2, 2015, as the District Conservationist in the Ottawa Field Office. Three located in the Kansas State Office in Salina, Kansas, retired on January 3, 2015. Harold R. Blume retired as an Environmental Engineer on the Engineering Staff. The other two were assigned to the Northern Great Plains Soil Survey Regional Office, Denver, Colorado. Cleveland E. Watts retired as the Soil Survey Regional Director and William A. Wehmueller retired as a Senior Regional Soil Scientist.

Harland Dietz, a Kansas retiree residing in Texas, sent us word concerning Daniel and Betty Holmes, former Kansas SCS'ers. Betty passed away December 3, 2014, after residing several years in a care center in Fort Worth, Texas. Dan's sons have since moved him to be nearer to them in South Carolina. Some of the Kansas SCS alumni might remember Daniel when he served as the work unit conservationist in the Abilene and Anthony Field Offices. From old personnel directories it appears that Daniel left Kansas in the mid-1960's.

We were saddened to learn that three retirees passed away during the holiday season. Cecil J. Herron passed away on December 16, 2014. Cecil retired as a Soil Conservation Technician with 22 years of service from the Dodge City Field Office. His wife, Hazel, survives. Loyd G. Wilson passed away on December 25, 2014. He served as the District Conservationist in the Jetmore Field Office. His wife, Julene, survives. Rick Porter passed away on January 2, 2015. He had retired in July of 2011. Rick's last position was as the Lake Region Resource Conservation Development Coordinator in the Ottawa RC&D Office.

We are looking forward to spring and will be holding our 2015 annual meeting on June 26, 2015, at the Quality Inn in Salina, Kansas.

Margaret Albritton's husband died. She is a retired Area Clerk and has moved from Mayfield, KY to be with her daughter in/near Indianapolis, IN. Thanks to Dwain Abell for updating us. If anyone knows her exact address, please let us know.

John R. Brown, retired DC reports that he was sorry to hear of his good friend Archie Gragg had passed away. Frank Cox, retired soil scientist, is still doing well. John spoke with him recently and meets him for coffee. John has a home in Florida and spends time there from October 1st to May each year. You can reach him at 360 Dreama Drive, Davenport FL 33897 this time of year. Phone 863-420-7802.

Fred Alcott, retired DC and Vice President of the KY SCS/NRCS Retiree Association, reported: June and I had good trip to Europe skiing in the Alps. We stayed on a bible school campus in Austria.

James Burkeen, DC retired January 1, 1988 after 26 years, and is now 90 years young. I wish I could attend the annual meeting but due to knees and other problems can't travel. I wish the best for all retirees.

Cluster Belcher is doing well. Cluster worked in KY and then in 1973 went to the PMC in New Jersey for 25 years before he retired. He has been retired 22 years.

Joseph (Joe) R. Davis, retired State Engineer reports that he spends November through March each year fishing at Lake Okeechobee, FL. Only caught 2,000 Crappie last year.

Lawrence I. Eastham, retired SCT reports: I'm still on the Nelson County Conservation District Board. My wife Pat and I winter in Florida and will be staying six months this year. God has blessed me, just turned 3/4 century old.
Rudy Forsythe, retired soil scientist reports that he was sorry to have to miss the annual retiree meeting. Rudy is involved with the Murray State University soil judging team and was accompanying them to the southeast regional soil judging contest at Clemson University. He hopes to attend in 2015.

Billye Haslett, retired State Administrative Officer: After a reasonably mild start to our winter, we’ve had a February to remember in Kentucky. Heavy snow and bitter cold, breaking all records.

My birthday was February 17th. I can remember growing up in Kentucky that I rarely got to go to school on my birthday due to snowfall. This past February 17th reminded me of that. However, I’m not complaining. We don’t have it nearly as bad as our SCS/NRCS retiree friends in Boston. I’ve stayed home and fed the birds, read and painted. I’m treating this like a snowcation!

Rodney Heilman, retired RC reports: I think often of my time in Todd County. I have fond memories of Fred Alcott’s father and sons (Fred and Steve), Mr. Willie and Simon. I lost my wife Lola in March 2014. I’m trying to learn. I had a good career and enjoyed it all. Good times!

Rodney Hendrickson, retired RC&D Coordinator: Since retiring from NRCS after 32-and-a-half years, I have been the Executive Director of the London-Laurel County Tourist Commission. I continue to be an avid runner and cyclist. I run about 1,000 miles per year and bicycle about 3,000 miles per year. I am also the director of the Redbud Ride, a bicycle tour that attracts about 1,500 cyclists from every corner of the United States.

J. Allen Parker, retired DC reports that he was sorry to miss the annual meeting. He enjoys the newsletter and hopes everyone is doing well.

Frank Scudder, retired ASTC reports: We had another good year. Spent Labor Day weekend at Lake Laneir in Georgia with several of our family. I worked on two Baptist Builder and one Habitat for Humanity projects in 2014. We worked with the Millikens to host the Retired South State Conservationist group at Boone Tavern in April. They really liked Berea. While there we got to visit with Archie Weeks and Paul Howell. They were around there for Taylor Morgan’s wife’s funeral. Billy Milliken had a knee replacement this fall, got along fine. I got a hole-in-one playing at Oaks C. C. in June; proves nothing about my golf game except that if you live a long time and keep trying it might happen. We enjoy reading the retiree news. Thanks to all of you who work on it.

Harold Woodlee, retired ASTC reports: My wife Amy had shoulder replacement surgery, which slowed us down for a while. After gardening season ended, a lot of my "spare" time was spent making miniature birdhouses and other paintable craft items for the Vanderbilt children’s hospital. They have over 100 kids per day; a lot of them sitting around waiting for various procedures to end, test results, etc. Craft painting helps them wait it out.

Ralph W. *"Billy" Forquer, retired CET, age 89 passed away on January 21, 2015. Doris Forquer, Billy’s wife survives. Billy was a minister and father of three daughters.

Noreen and John Simon celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on October 24th. Ellie and Joe Bertolaccini celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary on November 14th, and Judy and Charlie Boothby celebrated their 57th anniversary on February 8th. Congratulations to you all.

On November 24th Sid Emery celebrated his 101st birthday. On December 4th Dan McAllister (FMHA) turns 75, Art Taylor turns 72 on December 10th, Ed Snow turns 79 on December 13th, and Bill Moulton turns 72 on December 25th. As you can see, all of us are getting older up here.

Those attending the Tuesday breakfast on 11/11/2014 were: Judy and Charlie Boothby, Mary and Ray Voyer, and John Simon. The day was in the low 50s. This day was in contrast to the Blizzard of Sunday Nov 2nd. We had 12 inches of heavy wet snow, which flattened many trees and shrubs, and caused yours truly to be without power for two days. Some folks in Maine were without power for six days. Luckily my stand-along propane stove kept the house warm, but using flashlights for two days was a bummer.

Those attending the Tuesday breakfast on 12/9/2014 were: Art Taylor, Bruce Champeon, Charlie Boothby, Joe Bertolaccini, and John Simon. Art Taylor showed us some photos of the new house he is constructing. The outside siding is all done, and his work is now all inside. Judy and Charlie had recently returned from visiting their son in Virginia. They flew down this year rather than doing the Amtrak thing. Joe Bertolaccini and other flie-tying friends conducted classes for Brewer HS students. Many students attended and thoroughly enjoyed learning how to tie flies for fishing.
Talked to Richard (Dick) Ferland, and he indicated that his father Lionel Ferland was doing well in an Auburn Nursing facility as of December 2014. Leo is 96.

Those attending the Tuesday breakfast on 1/13/2015 were: Art Taylor, Bruce Champeon, Charlie Boothby, and John Simon. It was a cold and raw day but we enjoyed our breakfast outing.

On Wednesday the 14th it was minus 15 degrees at my house, but my Mini-split worked right through the evening, no problem. My supplemental oil heat did have to kick on to help it out, however. Just added this note for use by anyone contemplating installing one for heating/air conditioning. The manufacturers rate the unit to minus 5°, but they work way below that based on my experience.

A bunch of us SCS/NRCSers attended a retirement party for Paul Hersey, who retired from his DC job in Farmington, Maine on January 1st. The party was held on the 17th of January, and over 100 attended. We had a great time, and many of us met X-SCSers who we have not seen in decades. For that reason alone, these retirement parties are a great event. We all met Joe Bailey (88) who looks great! He has just lost his wife of many years in December.

We lost several SCS/NRCS folks this month. Brian Woodbury was killed in a forest harvesting accident. No details about Brian other than he died instantly. About 200 folks attended the funeral. About eight of us from USDA attended his funeral at a small rural church. No obituary was in the paper or accident report in the papers, so I have no information to pass along.

We also lost Wilfred Dymond on January 10th. No obituary was in the paper. A service will be held later this year. Wilfred was in his late 80s. Wilfred worked many years in the State Office in Orono.

Lionel Ferland (father of Richard Ferland) passed away at age 96 on February 2nd. Leo was a life-long dairy farmer and served 50+ years as a district supervisor for the Androscoggin County SWCD. He lived a full and long life for sure.

Those attending the regular 9am second Tuesday breakfast at Dysarts on 2/10/2015 were: Art Taylor, Charlie Boothby, Ray Voyer, and John Simon.

Art Taylor indicated that he has completed the wiring and plumbing on his new home. He needs to sheet-rock the walls and ceilings, install permanent heating, etc. and hopes to be in by this fall. Charlie Boothby is preparing to start this year’s classes on gardening. He has been teaching the course for several years now. This is a labor of love for Charlie.

Ray Voyer indicated that he has a son in the Air Force stationed in Turkey, and Ray and his wife plan a summer trip to visit him, and maybe stop in Italy on the way back.

In the last three weeks we in the Bangor area have had 49 inches of snow, not including the blizzard of November which wrecked a lot of my shrubbery. The rest of the northern half of the USA is also getting blasted this winter!

On February 14th the morning temperature was minus 18.9 degrees at the house, and the Mini-split worked right through the evening. I keep my own Heating Degree Days for the house and I have a separate electric meter on the M.S, and a computer on the furnace, so I have accurate daily records right through the winter for both oil use and electric use. Plots of energy use per HDD for both the Mini-split and oil furnace plot as fair straight lines for those technically interested.

We lost another SCSer on February 11th. Ray Stormann. He was 78. He was not on my email list of retirees and was not an ARCSE member. I knew of Ray who worked in the SO in Orono but did not know he had retired and lived in the area.

Ray never attended any of the Tuesday breakfasts, even though he was close by in Old Town. One of the hard jobs of a rep. for ARCSE is keeping track of retirees who slip off the radar screen. It is important for members to help us by notifying their representative of any known retirees and hopefully provide their phone # and email.

A related death in February is that of Mary V. McEwen, 88, of Lisbon Falls. She was the wife of Bryce McEwen who was the DC for SCS in Androscoggin County for many years. He switched over to DC after mapping the county and shepherding the soils report.

Another retiree has come down with the shingles. If you have not had the shingles yet, consider getting the shot. It is not 100% effective, but it increases your odds of not getting it. I had a bad case of it, and it is brutal.

Recent additions to the breakfast email list include: Susan Watson, Mary Thompson, Sally Butler, Paul Hersey, and Elaine Tremble. For most retirees coming to Bangor, it is a long drive but some of them schedule a trip around the second Tuesday of the month, so the trip is not an extra.

’Till next time take care and God bless, John Simon

Well, it’s been another quiet two months here on the edge of the frozen tundra. We’re not sure if Spring is on the way, but we do know that the winter has been cold and snowy. Boston just topped 100 inches of snow for the winter; more than we got in the valley but we still got more than our share. We have between two and three feet of snow on the ground, depending on where the drifts went. And it’s been bitter cold. Yesterday morning was -18, and the wind was adding to the misery. Us old timers think it’s just like the winters of old, when the snow was up to the eaves and it never went above zero; but maybe that’s just our memory failing.

When it is so cold, I really feel bad about seeing Betty go out to get the snow off the steps; but the work has got to be done. I usually make sure she sets the stove timer for about 15 minutes so she won’t get frost bite. That seems to work ok, except for when the wind is blowing so hard that she can’t hear the timer outside. I make sure she knows where the tea bags are, so that she can make a nice cup of tea when she comes in from the cold.

I learned this month that Jack Lace, retired Construction Inspector, passed away in September 2014. Jack retired in 1990 and spent his retirement years on the golf course whenever possible. Jack lived in Rhode Island but was sometimes spotted at Amherst College hockey games, since his grandson played for Bowdoin College.

This past January saw the retirement of Barbara Miller, State Resource Conservationist. Barb started her career with NRCS after escaping from a dairy farm in New York state. She was the first geographic information specialist in Mass. and then moved up to SRC after Rick DeVergilio retired.

I haven’t been over to check out the installation yet, but I hear that Cecil and Lou Currin have started helping Massachusetts meet our energy needs through a new rooftop solar farm. Sounds like a smart move, since our electric rates just went up 40 percent.

Marlene sent John Handler’s report:

Building things seemed to be an overall theme in 2014, my fifth year of retirement, consuming a bunch of time both at home and at a Habitat for Humanity house.

We started the Habitat house in May and finished it in November. The first day in May was cold and muddy down in that basement excavation, but on that final day in November, it was a pleasure to finish up in the kitchen.

Meanwhile at home, there was a large deck to be built to replace three smaller ones. The new deck wraps around the northeast corner of the house, so there is always a place to sit out of (or in) the prairie wind or sun. Western red cedar, while expensive, is a beautiful wood with which to work.

Have you ever had a tweet from the 1800s? Newspaper headlines served that purpose back in the day, and as I enter those headlines into the newspaper index database I am building at the Goodhue County History Center, I envision those words as being the tweets of their time.

Who says you can’t teach an old dog new tricks? Forty years ago was the first time I climbed into a kayak, paddled about 10 feet, rolled it over, and had much difficulty righting it and getting out of it. That experience scared me so much that I never got into another kayak—until last May. After getting comfortable, I actually tried to roll it over, but was unsuccessful. The design of kayaks has come a long way in forty years. I’m now ready to purchase one to replace the larger canoes we have owned for four decades. The canoes are getting more difficult to launch by myself, now that the children are out of the house and my bones are getting weary.

The Midwest Friends of the Pleistocene had its field trip in southwest Indiana last spring. “Friends of the Pleistocene?” you may be wondering, is a group of geologists and soil scientists who get together once in a while to examine the latest research on landforms and geologic processes 11,000 to 1.8 million years ago (give or take a year or two). Field trips located further north generally focus on glacial processes, but the focus of this one was on the earthquakes that have plagued the middle of the North American continent (and continue to do so). Very interesting several days, which included striking evidence of numerous earthquakes in river bottom sediments, Indian mounds, and on pyramids. The next quake could come at any time.

After the conference, I drove west to the Ozarks, having to cross the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers on tall narrow highway bridges, hoping and praying that the “next one” would not occur during the crossing!
Old habits die hard, but that can be a good thing when it comes to Sheepshead (the German word is Schafkopf; and, no, it's not food, or some animal ritual, it's a card game). A group of us used to play this card game during lunch break while still working, and we can't seem to get it out of our retired blood—we still gathered about six times last year for games (at a local watering hole, not the office). Wonderful opportunity to catch up with fellow retirees, amongst the games of Sheepshead.

Catching up with fellow college buddies from the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point was also a highlight of 2014. All of us had also worked for the Department of Natural Resources in central Wisconsin during those college years, so we spent many days viewing the results of our labors. Glad to see the actual results of our forest and fishery and wildlife management efforts. What we did to those trees and streams and fields 40 years ago really worked as advertised and is still in place today.

The Columbia area retirees had their quarterly breakfast at the Country Kitchen in Columbia on February 11th. Those in attendance were: John Turner, Bob and Rosemary Herschbach, Neil and Louise Randall, Frank and Kay Miller, Darlene Edwards, Richard and Marjorie Koenig, John and Carol McCarthy, Jerry Edwards, Jean Herman, Mike Wells, Roger Hansen, Bill Pauls, Maurice and Gloria Davis, Robert Hummel and Dave Rastorfer. The next quarterly breakfast will be on May 13th at the Country Kitchen. All retirees are welcome.

Gary Fak: we have been enjoying reading the news from other retirees. We have been wintering in Florida for the past three years and thinking about buying a condo. Currently we own half a house with our youngest daughter and son-in-law on Redington Beach on the Gulf side (West Coast), but it's time to relocate to Treasure Island Beach, one of our favorite spots. We enjoy our time here but will be heading back to Chillicothe in April to visit our oldest daughter and grandkids. Wishing everyone a happy winter.

Doug Wallace reports that he's still breathing!

Jim Rickman (Missouri native transplanted to Texas): We are still traveling a lot. We leave Sunday for Jordan and Israel. In June we are going to Costa Rica with the entire family. In May we're going to Florida tarpon fishing. Next year we are going to Argentina and Chile in April and to Laos, Viet Nam, Cambodia and Thailand in August. We have some room for both trips in 2016 if anyone would be interested in traveling then. Costs are affordable if you reduce your children's inheritance. Texas has been experiencing diminished quail populations for the past five or six years, but this year we are seeing a rebound. Kicked up nine coveys first hunt and 10 coveys second hunt. Hope everyone is in good health.

Bill Pauls: Marathon #85 overall (35th state on the 2nd time around the 50 states) was "celebrated" by me and my lovely young bride (no, no, no, not someone new; just trying to win points with my wife of 44 years this June 5th) at Celebration, FL. We were celebrating doing this crazy running thing for the past 20 years; thus far uninjured and physically blessed with health, although I admit, possibly a bit mentally deficient. Kris is still running the 5Ks, and we are still running for our Christian Pro-Life group. Next up Cumberland, MD in March; training (i.e. running/jogging/walking), whatever I feel like doing (or not) ongoing on a sporadic daily basis.

Went ice skating in St. Louis with both our kids, spouses and four great G'kids for birthdays of two of them and Kris, what a hoot! It was warm, so that was nice, but there were nice puddles of liquid ice over about half the Steinburg Rink (Forest Park, St. Louie). neat place! Kids had a blast "falling" and sliding in the watery mix of water and slush. We adults tried to stay dry, but alas we are not exactly Peggy Flemings anymore (or ever were), and gravity does happen, eventually. Otherwise life is good, it goes on, and we are all healthy and happy, and very Blessed. Wishing everyone a great spring, soon we hope. Be nice to one another and God Bless you all, "U Ol Gobermint Workers." PS: four months into Medicare and so far so good.

Jay Lingwall: Leigh and I are doing fine in Southwest Florida, continuing to be involved heavily in the community church. Leigh is leading the praise band and now has a few professional musicians on board, and the music is bringing more people in. We also continue our running with 10K road races and a few half marathons. Leigh won her age group for the Florida state senior games and finally agreed to go to Minnesota to compete in the national senior games 10K race this July. She has started her training for that July race, and it is really wearing me out. I found a group of 50 and 60 yr-old guys who play volleyball on Mondays and Wednesdays. These guys are athletes and I have to bring my "A" game, when I can find it; but I really do enjoy the competition. I was able to travel north to Missouri and Nebraska in January to visit family and friends. It was a great trip, and I got to experience eight inches of snow in Nebraska. The sunshine in Florida on return was awesome.

Jim Sturm: The Jimbo has been hibernating inside the house like an old grizzly bear since the winter temperatures arrived. A few medical problems have come and gone, and one in particular has been a pain in the urinary plumbing department since the 4th of December. I'm in the process of changing urologists this month, since the old one just wants to prescribe pills that harm my well-being. The last eight inches of snow damaged about 30 feet of rain gutter whenever the 6" chunks of ice began falling off the deck roof some six days ago. The west deck of the house might get finished this coming summer. Most days, one will catch Jimbo yakking on the phone or messing around on the computer. Looking forward to spring.

Dennis Shirk: Good Morning folks. It’s cold this morning, but I guess it’s still winter. I have no complaints of winter in my neck of the woods. Both Lois and I have been fighting the cold and sinus and coughing bug for quite a bit of time. We get better, and then it returns again. I’ve got my dormant seedling of legumes spread on my paddocks. Yes, I still practice (MIG) on my hobby farm. I have done some short rides on these warm days. Have a ride schedule in April and one in May. Nothing else exciting brewing at this time. See y’all down the trail.

Fred Young: soil scientist, retired but still on the job as an ACES contractor. Rhetorical question for my fellow retirees: do you need a new bicycle? Of course you do! And I know just where you can get one: Mountain View Cycles in Hood River, Oregon. Not coincidentally, the shop is owned and operated by my son-in-law and his wife (my daughter). It is a beautiful area to visit, right in the Columbia River gorge, about an hour from Portland; and Rafe will fix you right up with bicycles for the whole family. While you’re out there, consider getting off the beaten track and head east. That’s what Julie and I did on a recent trip. The John Day River flows undammed for 252 miles from the headwaters in the Blue Mountains and Strawberry Range to its confluence with the Columbia. It’s beautiful country, many interesting natural features, great Steelhead fishing (or so they tell me), and a startling lack of humans. Miles of open empty roads—perfect for riding your new bikes!

Jess Epple (near Muskogee, Oklahoma) Phyllis and I left K.C., MO just before the Feb. 15th winter storm hit, and upon arrival home were greeted by two new calves. The plan was all fall calves were to be born before Dec. 15th—so much for planning! This A.M. we received freezing rain and about 1” snow with a cool, windy 20 degrees. We had an enjoyable time visiting with great-grand kids/parents/grand-parents. Also helped “pa-pa” Boyd Hughes (son-in-law) celebrate his 58th birthday. With four grand-kids to hold all at once, he is very challenged! James Hughes, at Columbia, has been promoted, and continues employment with U.S. Geological Survey and also referees ball games in surrounding areas. Our two granddaughters continue to teach in the K.C. area, and one grandson-in-law completed police academy training and is now patrolling. I watch my speed more closely now when driving in his jurisdiction! He also continues his part time job of 3-D filming for a company. Life is good for our Missouri family. Our Tennessee family is doing well also. We expect to be great-grand parents from one of the twins in March. That would be a total of five for Phyllis and Jess.

We continue volunteering at “the C.W. Battle of Honey Springs Park,” located near our ranch and continue to hope for National Park Status in 2015. We also are involved with the Alumni at Connors State College. It continues to expand and grow under young new administration. From Indian country, the land of “Contrasts and Contradictions,” we wish all of you retirees happiness, good health, and a more ambitious COLA!

Ted Utz just returned from Vail/Beaver Creek Colorado after volunteering for the World Cup Alpine Ski Championship. Ted was one of 2,200 volunteers for the world event that had 250,000 visitors from all over the world. Athletes from 70 countries participated. Ted worked on the race crew, which prepared the rather steep course, with portions of it with slopes up to 65% (a little steeper than the Missouri river bluffs in Andrew County, MO). To make the course even more challenging than just pure steepness, Ted helped put water (3 million gallons) on the snow to make it even slicker. The weather was great, actually warmer than at his home in Savannah, MO. For volunteering he received free lodging, two meals per day, and very nice ski pants and jacket(s), goggles, gloves, caps and lots of great memories.

Terry Barney retired at the end of 2014. Terry didn’t stay gone long. He came back last week as an ACES contractor. Now Terry, Fred Young, Doug Wallace, Ron Miller are back to work in the state office at their retirement jobs on the ACES program. (It must be nice to have a specialty that requires you to come back to work— or not).

We were saddened recently of the passing of Lance Appleton, husband of Merna Appleton, computer specialist in IT (OCIO) in State Office.

Montana Big Sky Report

Scott Hoag Jr. Report: Scott and Nancy are enjoying their time in Yuma—mostly doing nothing and relaxing. Scott went on a farm tour a while back—amazing. The Yuma valley produces 90% of the leafy vegetables consumed in the US between Nov. and March and is known as the “lettuce capital the world.” A thousand trucks a day leave Yuma carrying produce far and wide. The land is continuously cropped—vegetables in the winter, wheat next, harvested in May; then cotton or alfalfa and citrus on the higher ground, and dates here and there. They say agriculture is worth $3.2 billion/yr to Yuma County. A long-time farmer with us on the tour bought his first acres about 50 yrs ago for $9,000/ ac; it’s now worth $32,000/ ac. A week or so ago Scott and Nancy met Luther and Dorothy McDougal for breakfast. They were on their way from a reunion in CA to their home in NM.
Gooby Ranch Report: The three cats Mary Ann got don't eat mice. Every day they check out the buildings and fields, bring the mice to the porch, but they don't hurt them. One day Mary Ann counted 38 mice on the porch, and the cats were just lying there playing with the mice. It seems the cats don't know what their job is. How do you teach a cat to eat a mouse? It was a lot easier when I worked for NRCS. We all had job descriptions that laid out our job. We attended the various management training sessions to learn to do our job even better. Management Level One went into a lot of detail about what our job was and how best to do our job, and they even gave us hands-on training. But not once did any of the Management trainings say anything about teaching cats to eat mice. Although one did say something about the best-laid plans for mice and men. (Editor’s note: “groan.”)

I got out Management Level One through Six books and went over them in detail while Mary Ann was planting fence posts. After studying all of the management level course material, it was obvious that the best way to teach someone is to show them how to do the task. That means we need to show the cats how to eat mice. Mary Ann and I are sticking with eating Gooby Beef. We held a meeting to discuss what to do. That’s when we decided to invite a couple of old ranch hands over to watch the Super Bowl. Mary Ann trapped four mice and had them on a hors d’oeuvres paper plate. As soon as the neighbors showed up, I gave them each a can of beer and kept replenishing their cans as soon as they were empty. They both acted like they were dying of thirst. Towards the end of the game they had already devoured two plates of hors d’oeuvres. When we thought they were drunk enough Mary Ann let the cats in and got the mice hors d’oeuvres plate ready. They were both so excited about the game, they weren’t watching what they were chucking in their mouths. There was 22 seconds to go. Just as she set the plate down, Wilson threw the interception and the game was over. The guys were so mad they slammed their beer cans down, grabbed their coats and staggered out the door. I even had to drive them home. Now I know what the saying, “The best laid plans of mice and men,” means. The cats still aren’t eating mice. Mary Ann and I are “Deflated.”

SCS/NRCS breakfast meetings were held on Jan 21st, and Feb 18th, 2015. President Steve Scheinost opened the January meeting. Norman Kempf opened the February meeting. Only eight people attended in January, and 16 were present for the February breakfast.

Roger Hammer and Steve Scheinost celebrated January birthdays. Pete Jensen celebrated his 91st birthday in February. Mike and Maxine Stout celebrated their 70th. Pete and Doris Jensen celebrated their 70th. Roger celebrated three Christmas get-togethers in Valentine with different members of his family. Mike and Maxine Stout celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary.

Steve Scheinost and Steve Stover will both be in Arizona in February so Norman Kempf volunteered to open meeting.

Paul Dee Smith died on February 8, 2015. Harold (Joe) Kuening died on February 16, 23015. Both were active in our retirees’ association and will be missed. He and Doris celebrated their 68th wedding anniversary.

Joe Calder said he had heard from Jim Carr, who winters in Arizona, saying he had sent in his dues for summer golf league and was doing fine.

Allan Connell writes: Terry and I traveled to Norway to visit my son and his family over the Christmas Holidays. We had a wonderful time spending it with our two grandchildren—Emily 18 months and Sophie age 5. Those are special times and we celebrated a traditional Norwegian Christmas. We even got a chance to eat some reindeer, which is really tasty! We were there for New Years, and the Norwegians take the New Year celebration very seriously. The sky lights up with fireworks everywhere. It is like our Independence Day on steroids. It sounded like we were being bombed, there were so many fireworks going off. It was quite an experience.

Fred Gilbert writes: Mary and I returned to the big freeze (that’s CNY) February 14th, just in time to experience some bodacious driving conditions beginning in Cleveland and never ending. We were house guests of our daughter and husband in Anthem, Arizona from mid- November until we made the illogical decision to come home.

Tyrone Goddard reports that he and Shirley are well. Both are still working at H.O.M.E., Inc. Retirement plans are incomplete. Both enjoy the work and will probably continue as long as they are able. Daughter Janie, her husband Ozell and children moved back to the area from Boston last summer, which makes Tyrone and Shirley very happy. Both enjoy spending as much time as possible with the grandchildren. Shirley has become the hairdresser to the two girls, and Tyrone has become the playmate for the two girls and their brother. He also takes them fishing and to sporting and entertainment events. The children think he is a great fisherman, even though he still has never caught a walleye. Tyrone and Shirley travelled to Washington, NC for a family reunion of Tyrone’s family and to Baltimore, MD for a wedding last year. They also travelled to Elizabeth City, NC for Shirley’s 50th high school reunion. Of course they travelled to Boston frequently, prior to their daughter’s move back to Syracuse. This year, they will travel to Pantego, NC for Tyrone’s 50th high school reunion, class of ’65 with 22 members. Tyrone is excited at the prospect of seeing his classmates again.

Walt Grajko writes: We welcomed a new granddaughter into the clan on November 18th, Mila Josephine Grajko. We now have three. Kathy and I are babysitting two days a week for Henry (three yrs) and Mila. Our other granddaughter is in Stamford, CT. She, Tim and Tim’s wife spent 10 days with us at Christmas. Pretty challenging keeping everyone happy, especially with a dog and cat that don’t get along with each other. Kids all doing well with Liz at the Zoo as an education coordinator, Michael a Correction Officer in Jamesville, and Tim with JP Morgan on Wall Street.

I’m looking forward to traveling to Myrtle Beach in March to play golf and then back to start the process of opening the cottage up in the Islands. Winter has been a downer (as you well know), and we’re looking forward to spring, although no basketball tournaments for Syracuse University is a bummer. Let’s hope the NCAA doesn’t come down too hard on them.

I twisted my knee in December, and since the weather was crappy didn’t want to risk damage by coming to town for the State Office “Cookie Day.” I’ll try to make the retiree picnic this summer.

Bob Hartrick writes: We are doing our best in Dale but am about to cry Uncle! Seems like all we do is shovel and plow, and running out of room to put the “white” stuff.

I had an MRI on my back, since I’ve been having severe pain shooting down my back and legs for over 10 months. So told my doctor it’s time to see what’s up. The test showed I have three discs bulging out in lower spine and pinching the sciatic nerve. Hopefully after seeing a pain management specialist, he may inject cortisone shots to relieve it. The other alternative is back surgery, so am hoping this does the trick. As they say “it’s hell to get old.”

The Snowy Owls are back in the area again this year. I saw seven last year, one close to home, but have not seen any yet this year. They say the young get kicked out of the breeding and food supply areas near the Arctic, and head south looking for a new food source. They see most of them on fences and power poles surrounding the Batavia Airport.

We had our annual Area One retirees’ luncheon at Hawley's in Perry, NY. Al McGuffie organized the lunch and, weather permitting, he had about 14 confirmed attendees. The weather was kind of bad with cold and blowing snow. There were supposed to be at least five more but cancelled at the last moment. It’s been a good time reminiscing the old days, and sharing what everybody’s been up to. See the group picture.

Dominic’s son Jim is now the DC in Warsaw, Wyoming County where ironically Dom and I both served together back in the 80s. Everyone has the similar aches and pains, etc., but all are doing well. Al McGuffie said he bought a new fishing boat, so hoping this summer we again can get together for some Lake Trout fishing. Booth is still working at WNY Crop Management. Don is still involved with grassland pasture management and working at a ski resort. Everyone else seems to be enjoying full retirement, including myself.

Harry and Sharon Potter wrote: We have survived all of the snow and cold so far. In January we became first-time great grandparents to Levi Thomas Layman. Looking forward to a train trip to Nebraska this spring to meet him and visit other family.
Erwin and Gwenn Rice write: On March 20th Gwenn and I will have been married 60 years. We have no grandkids graduating this spring, but Jackie Rice in her first semester of college at Florida State Atlantic University in Boca Raton, FL is being moved to a junior next fall, skipping her sophomore year of pre-med.

Keith Wheeler shares excerpts from a letter to Dr. Porter on behalf of the Directors of the Paul F. Brandwein Institute, “to inform you that you have been selected to be awarded the Brandwein Medal for 2015. We want to recognize your lifetime work for something in addition to being a world leader in pedology, that is inspiring new generations regardless of age, to experience, embrace and love nature first hand.” This award will be given at the National Science Teachers Annual Convention in Chicago in the spring.

From George and Ellen Norris:
I just talked to my good friend, Craig Right, in NC. Craig's wife, Jo, fell before Christmas and broke a hip. She was hospitalized following surgery for that and is now in rehab. Today she was diagnosed with flu and is not doing well at all. Craig had planned to move her on Monday to a full nursing care center but doesn't know whether she will be strong enough to move. Also Craig has been on medication all week for flu and is better now but still not strong. Craig's mailing address: 5700 N. Spring Flowers Drive, Graham, NC 27253-9818

NORTH DAKOTA
Robert "Bob" Bird, ARCSE Representative
Email: Rajmbird@aol.com

We escaped the cold and snow of North Dakota to go to Texas again this year. So far we’ve stayed west of Austin at Shores of Lake Travis at Lago Vista, Hill Country Resort at Canyon Lake north of San Antonio, and Fisherman’s Cove on Lake Conroe at Willis. Next week we go to Rayburn Country Club Resort at Sam Rayburn Reservoir in East Texas. While we were in the area of New Braunfels, we had supper with Bill and Kelli Stokes at the Gruene River Diner. Bill and I worked together in the Minnesota State office in the 1990s. Bill and Kelli are building a new house in Killeen, TX near Ft. Hood, but it is running way behind schedule, so they are renting in New Braunfels. Their former house sold the day after they put it on the market. We had a great visit and tried to catch up on former colleagues.
We lost three retirees: Bill Gibson (some of us knew him as Hoot Gibson). When I was working Project work in ND, every year there would be a Project Engineers and Construction Inspector Workshop in the winter to provide training on new procedures in construction techniques, testing and contract administration. During this meeting there was a trophy for the biggest BS'er called "What we say here makes the grass grow greener." Hoot Gibson's mouth was nonstop from the time he got there until he left and usually was the hands-down winner, unless they sometimes gave it to someone who didn’t even open his mouth. Even though Hoot retired in 1987, he worked as a crop adjuster for many years and also was a driver delivering vehicles for Theel Motors. He volunteered in his church, Knights of Columbus, Eagles, American Legion, VFW, Bottineau Country Club, Charter member of the QB Club, was on the chain crew for over 40 years for Bottineau High School football games, coached Little League Baseball and was a Boy Scout Leader.

The second was Gene Fitterer who also served in the U.S. Army in Korea and received a Civil Engineer Technician Certificate from the ND State School of Science in Wahpeton, ND. After Gene retired from SCS, he spent 15 years working for Kadmas, Lee and Jackson as an inspector for road projects and later for Dunn County. He was also involved with his church, the Knights of Columbus and spending time with his family.

The third was Linda McArthur who retired a little over a year ago, and I am told she was a very hard worker and always put her kids’ needs before her own. She had several hobbies, but her service program says her fleischkuekle (meat-filled pastry) was the best.

Seems like my news lately has been remembering items about those who have passed on, and we hope that their families are able to remember all the great things that their loved ones did for the SCS, their community and their family. Hopefully in the next issue the Snowbirds including us will be back in North Dakota, and we can catch up with their winter activities.

Jeanette "Jan" Mumma, 75, died Thursday Jan. 1, 2015 at Kearney, NE Regional Medical Center. She is the wife of the late Charles "Chuck" Mumma, who was Assistant State Conservationist in North Dakota for many years. She is survived by her daughter, Nita (Kim) Deyo of Kearney, NE; four grandchildren; two brothers and their wives, and a sister and her husband. She was preceded in death by her husband, parents, and a brother.

The Oregon retiree lunch was held on January 28th at The Old Spaghetti Factory west side location in Tanasbourne. A record number, including several for the first time, attended the lunch. Present were Stefanie Aschmann, Sue Brandt, Anna Cerotsky, Clifton and Marva Deal, Kay Denfeld, Matthew Fillmore, Gary Formanek, Bobbie Hart, Russ Hatz, Don Huffman, Dave and Joan Johnson, Jack Kanalz, Lowell and Marian Kenedy, Russ Langeridge, Rose Loehr, Jim Marron, Chad McGrath, Terry Mitchell, Jeff Repp, Marcine Richmond, Lamont Robbins, Leland Saele, Joe Sahlfield, Pat Smith, Pat Straka, Dick and Kathy Sylvester, Eldena VanderZanden, Dick Verboort, Gail Voge, Ralph Wadleigh, Don and Diana Wallin, Rene' Walls, Beth Zetter, and yours truly, Don Stettler.

Several wrote to tell me their regrets. Marasel Tingey said he "would love to see old faces and share old times" but health issues were keeping him and his wife close to home. Jon and Jolene Lea were planning to attend the lunch, but something came up at the last minute requiring their attention. It would have been Jolene's first time as a retiree. Jon told me that he and Jolene spent the week between Christmas and just after the New Year on the Kona Coast of Hawaii with Jon's mom, his brother and family. Jon and Jolene having been involved in water supply forecasting, couldn't resist checking out the snow line on Mauna Kea. They thought it strange to be wearing heavy coats in near freezing temperatures on the tropical island.

The lunch presented a challenge or two. One was being surprised by a single check for the lunch. Showing the high character of SCS/NRCS retirees, attendees made sure I had enough funds to pay the bill. The restaurant's general manager has assured me that there will be separate checks when we meet at this location for the summer quarter lunch in July.

The spring quarter lunch will be held on April 22nd at The Old Spaghetti Factory at Clackamas. An email with the details will be sent out in early April.
What a cold winter we are experiencing in Pennsylvania. Lots of single digit degrees and even some negative overnight temperatures. Spring will come!

The PA Retirees will meet September 20-21, 2015 at the Grey Towers National Historic Site in Milford, PA. Grey Towers is the ancestral home of Gifford Pinchot, first chief of the US Forest Service and twice governor of Pennsylvania. Pinchot helped shape conservation in America. Here are two web sites which give details of Grey Towers, including a virtual tour!

http://www.fs.fed.us/wo/gt/
http://www.greytowers.org/

Check your schedules and plan on a trip to Pike County in northeastern Pennsylvania in September to renew SCS/NRCS friendships and visit a beautiful house and gardens and learn about Gifford Pinchot. Watch for details in the spring PA BUGLE! Speaking of the PA BUGLE, our editor, Tim Murphy is looking for news from any retirees in PA, so let’s send Tim (vindemurph@verizon.net) some old stories and share some news about what is happening in your life!

NRCS retirees continue to serve their community. Pickens County Council recently recognized Dennis Bauknight for 20 year of service to their community related to fire protection. Dennis has served over 20 years on the Dacusville Fire Board, bringing the fire district from meager beginning to one of the best. As we (NRCS Family) know, Dennis and Amanda have served South Carolina in many roles; and as this shows, they continue to serve in their retirement years. Congratulations to both and we know that you will continue to serve our state.
Pickens County councilman Tom Ponder, who represents the Dacusville Fire District, recently presented awards to Dennis Bauknight and Sid Miller and for their leadership on the Dacusville Fire Department Board of Directors.

Two of our best NRCS employees have decided to join the group of retirees in South Carolina. Wayne Henderson and Tommy Mock, both Conservation Technicians for SCS/NRCS serving in different sections of the state, recently retired. Both served their total careers in South Carolina and are looking forward toward retirement, and we wish them well.

Curt Hobbs and family plan on moving to Fayetteville, GA in March 2015 to be closer to their grandchildren. We hate to see them go, but do understand the motivation to be closer to their family: GA gain and South Carolina loss.

Bill Melvin and Shirley remain active but requiring some more effort. Shirley continues to recover from having the knee replacement last fall and more recent fall at home. Bill is back at work (surprise). After several retirements, he is working doing pond consulting. We hope you can continue serving our state.

Doug Deaderick and Dianna report that they are involved in renovating a 1945 bungalow in Columbia, SC. They have completely redone the inside, replacing floors, ceilings, heating, and adding additional space. They say they are not looking for any new similar projects and will return to part-time demolition and asbestos abatement.

Niles Glasgow and I (Byron Thompson) had planned a golf outing in January. Being wise adults and the cold weather, we canceled plans and took our two wonderful wives to lunch. A great decision! I have been working with our County Council on several legislative bills in Columbia, SC.

We are starting our plans for the spring meeting which will be held on April 23rd, 2015.

Marcia Delucchi asked that her e-mail address be changed to marciadelucchi@outlook.com.

Bob Fronk had a great Christmas. All five of his kids, including the oldest from Idaho, were here for Christmas, as well as 12 of his 14 grandchildren.

Estella Williams wrote: It is always such a delight to keep up with fellow alumni members. As for me, I am doing well (Thank God!). The joy of my day is spent caring for my “Grand Gift” (grandbaby) Morgan Elise. And yet the day doesn’t end without me going to see my Mother who has been diagnosed with dementia. She is in a care facility and has been since November. I also work at a food pantry two evenings a month and perform dispute arbitration every now and then. Overall, I am grateful for every blessing that is granted! Here’s hoping that 2015 will provide each of you optimal health of body, mind, and spirit!

Bernie Owen would like to remind everyone that he will be giving a tax update at the February meeting, which will be Feb. 20.

Faye Herriman Alexander, beloved wife, mother, sister and friend, passed away Thursday, December 18, 2014, in her 87th year. In lieu of flowers, the family requests donations be made to the American Heart Association or a charity of choice. Faye devoted her life to God and to her family, striving only to make others happy. She was the ultimate wife, mother and homemaker, delighting in her husband, children and grandchildren’s accomplishments, supporting all their efforts while humbly downplaying her own.

Twenty people attended the January 16th meeting: Earl Blakley, Dennis Gaster, Joyce Petty, Elaine and Billy Don Davis, Barb and Dave Stockbridge, Bill and Rita Kuenstler, Don Newman, Bernie and Maxine Owen, Tom Hodges, Anita Plummer, Jim and Jere Rickman, Mary Garsjo, Bonnie McKee, Dennis Erinakes, and Clyde Goodman.

We miss seeing our members. If you need a ride to the meetings, please let someone know. The Alumni Club directory for 2014 was included with your May newsletter if you need someone’s contact information.

Jim and Jere Rickman presented the program for the meeting. They told about their trip, in October and November 2014, to Tanzania and Kenya, then ending in Zanzibar. In Kenya and Tanzania, they were part of a small tour group that traveled around the country, staying in tents at night. They saw numerous wild animals—lion, cheetah, wildebeest, Cape buffalo, hippopotamus to name a few—and learned about Masai tribal customs. They also visited the Oldupai (Olduvai) Gorge, where remains of the earliest human ancestors were discovered by Louis Leakey.

There are two items to report about Barbara Gillum. Barbara had a heart attack over the Jan. 10-11 weekend. She underwent a six-hour surgery Monday, January 12th. She did fine, the surgeon reported. She was in Huguley Hospital in ICU about three days and in the hospital about seven days, then spent several days in rehab. Please pray she heals quickly and completely.

Clyde Goodman reports that he had a message from Deborah Alexander Nash, Edward Alexander’s daughter: I thought I would let you know that my Dad has a new address. We moved him to a wonderful retirement community yesterday. Not sure if you are the correct person to tell but since you handled the notification of my mother’s death, I hope you will pass this information along as well. I am sure Dad would love to get mail! Thanks in advance! Edward L. Alexander, Brookline Westover Hills, 6201 Plaza Parkway #1007, Ft. Worth, TX 76116

Dan Holmes’ wife, Betty, passed away on Dec. 3rd, 2014. Dan has moved to Columbia, SC, to be closer to his sons. His new address is: 1101 Delta Drive, Columbia, SC 29209. I’m sure he would appreciate hearing from his friends.

John Peterson, our man in Washington, DC.

Warren and Barb Lee returned to cold Virginia in early February (for 2 weeks) to meet their new grandson Carter James Bray, a healthy 8#-14oz boy. Congratulations Lees!

The John Petersons continue their conservation activities. John and Blanche recently attended the NACD 69th Annual Meeting in New Orleans, where John is on the NACD Board of Directors representing the Virginia Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts (VASWCD). Then the next week they were in Tampa, FL for the Land Improvement Contractors of America (LICA) Winter Meeting. John assists LICA with their Government Relations work. Then it was on to Portland, OR for the International Erosion Control Association (IECA) meeting. John is a past IECA President. While in Portland he met with EnviroCert International, Inc. (ECI). ECI manages four environmental certification programs including the Certified Professionals in Erosion and Sediment Control (CPESC) program which John helped start in 1981. And finally he helped the National Grazing Lands Coalition (NatGLC) with their annual spring meeting to DC when they visit their Congressional Representatives. John has been a volunteer with NatGLC since 1998 and manages their National Grazing Conferences. Their February was mostly travel.

Bob Kohnke sends, “In September, I embarked on a river cruise on the Rhine and Mosel Rivers through six countries in Europe, accompanied by friends and family. We strolled through Antwerp, sampling chocolate and admiring the 16th century guildhouses. Our next stop was the Delta Works Flood Control Project and Kinderdijk Windmills of the Netherlands. At the Liberation Museum we encountered U.S. paratroopers reenacting the liberation of Holland seventy years ago. We began our cruise on the Mosel River with a stop at Cochem, Germany, and a visit to Reichsburg Castle constructed in the eleventh century. One of the prettier towns we visited was Bernkastel, also famous for wineries. In Trier, we visited the towering Roman gateway built around AD 200. Our next stop was Luxembourg and the American Cemetery, the resting place for soldiers killed in the Battle of the Bulge. Back on the Rhine, we explored Marksburg Castle, for a glimpse of medieval life near Boppard, and on to Speyer for a Home-Hosted Kaffeeklatsch with a local family. The next stop was Strasbourg, France and an Alsatian Highlights tour before Basel, Switzerland, and farewell to the river cruise. This was a leisurely way to travel, unpacking once, enjoying wonderful meals, and taking in the beautiful sites and castles along the rivers.”

Present at our February luncheon at the Timber Creek Grill and Buffet were: Jud Melton, Harry Riehle, Ralph Schmidt, Larry and Jean Edmonds, Gary and Elinor Johnson, Hans and Kathryn Krauss, Jerry Richard, Carl and Paula Vennes, Chet Jahn, Phil Schauble, and Tim King. Phil Schauble is now sporting a pace maker, and it’s doing a great job. Gary and Elinor Johnson will be heading to Mesa, AZ to soak up some sun and enjoy the warmer weather. Ralph Schmidt will again be volunteering to assist seniors in preparing their income tax forms. Ralph and Lynn are also planning a trip to Portland, OR to spend some time with their son. Ken and Tina Kaul have made a trip to Israel, and we should get a report and some pictures at our next luncheon. Jean Edmonds has been using her skills as a jeweler by making necklaces and giving the gals at our luncheon a necklace. A neighbor of Larry and Jean's had been in Japan and liked to beach hunt and found polished pieces of blue glass which they gave to Jean. Thank you Jean, they are not only beautiful, but have a story to tell as well.

Senior Conservationist

Jerome C. (“Jerry”) Hytry

Senior Conservationist Jerry Hytry was born January 10, 1932, in Mosinee, Wisconsin.

Mosinee is in the central part of Wisconsin about 100 miles north of Madison and 75 miles west of Green Bay. Jerry grew up on his family's dairy farm; he attended a one-room elementary school and graduated from high school in Mosinee in 1949. He then enrolled at the University of Wisconsin-River Falls. During his university years he held various jobs including part-time employment at a restaurant and a summer job with the Oconomowoc Canning Company. Jerry graduated in 1953 with a Bachelor of Science degree with a double major in Agriculture and Science.

Jerry had a student deferment from military service during college. In the summer between his junior and senior years he worked for SCS as a Student Trainee in Neillsville, WI. Upon graduation he was employed as a Soil Conservationist in Shawano, WI, until he was drafted into the U.S. Army in December 1953. After basic training, Jerry served his military duty at Fort Bliss, Texas. After his honorable discharge from the Army in 1955 Jerry was assigned to the field office in Black River Falls, WI; he arrived there in December 1955 and was sent to Manitowoc in January 1956. In October 1957 he was transferred to Siren, WI, as District Conservationist; he remained there until November 1958 when he accepted to job as District Conservationist at Darlington, WI. It was during his tenure at Darlington that he met and married his wife Mary Jo June 11, 1960. In February 1964 Jerry was promoted to District Conservationist at Waukesha, WI, where he served until he accepted the job of RC&D Coordinator at Towanda, PA, in November 1967. In February 1971 he was named Area Conservationist located at Bloomsburg, PA; he worked in that job until August 1972 when he accepted the job of Assistant State Conservationist for New Jersey at Somerset. Two years later (August 1974) he moved to SCS National Headquarters as a Management Analyst. In December 1975 he was selected State Conservationist for Wisconsin located at Madison. In October 1980 Jerry was named Director of the Conservation Planning Division at SCS Headquarters. In July 1982 he was selected as Associate Deputy Chief for Programs and in January 1986 he moved to the job of Associate Deputy Chief for Administration. Jerry retired from Federal service in January 1988.

In retirement he has remained very active both professionally and in volunteer activities. Jerry was named a Fellow by SWCS in 1990. From 1989 through 1991 he led the field team for SWCS that evaluated work performed by SCS in implementation of 1985 Farm Bill conservation provisions. During this period, his team visited and evaluated works in 37 counties across the country. In 1991 Jerry and Mary Jo moved from Northern Virginia to West Lafayette, Indiana, when he became Director of the Conservation Technology Information Center. He left that position in 1995 and relocated to Winchester, VA. From 1995 to 2004 he volunteered his time with Blue Ridge Hospice. In 2005 he was named “Volunteer of the Year” by Blue Ridge Hospice. He and Mary Jo moved to Orlando, Florida, in 2005. Since moving to Orlando, Jerry has remained active as a volunteer at East Orlando Hospital and as visitor to residents of two senior citizen centers. He has also been a volunteer at his church for over eight years.

He and his wife Mary Jo were married 46 years before her passing in 2006. Their family consists of two daughters, two sons, three grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren. Jerry enjoys reading; he reads about two books a week (“mostly U.S. history” he writes). And, he walks three miles a day.

Jerry says that he cannot be but thankful for his career and all the opportunities and experiences he has had. To paraphrase him, he said that he is amazed that a farm boy from a farm in Central Wisconsin could have had the experiences that he has had. He also encourages everyone to volunteer to help people; it is extremely rewarding for the recipient and for the volunteer as well.
